

Bellingham Public Works
We work for clean water!

I'm Cam-e, the camera transporter. I go through pipes to check for damage and clogs. I drive down the pipe with a video camera and send all the footage up to the scan van so that we can decide how to fix the pipe. The scan van and I are a pretty good team. We work together to make sure that water can flow through the pipes without leaking into the ground.

May 16- 22, 2021 is National Public Works Week. The City of Bellingham Public Works department provides essential city services such as clean drinking water, wastewater treatment, stormwater management, protection of natural resources, and safe streets and sidewalks for transportation. Show your appreciation for all the stormwater and construction project management the City of Bellingham Public Works Department does by sharing your artwork on social media and tagging your post with #NPWW during National Public Works Week.
