Design vs. Implementation

Steve Glickman, one of the architects and champions of the legislation, characterizes the optimal approach to O-zone investing

Steve Glickman Develop LLC

“If you do this program right, you’re viewing it through the lens of what I call place-based value investing – making long-term bets on places that other people aren’t seeing.”

The Risks

Gentrification & Displacement

People – individuals, families and even businesses – are forced to move because they can no longer afford to stay

Missed Opportunities

New property ownership models are not pursued

People with the potential to start, expand or reinvent a business are overlooked

Unintended Consequences

Increased demands on transportation infrastructure, increased housing instability and more

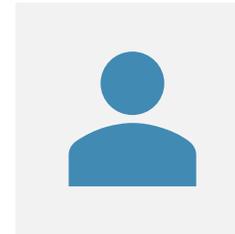

Balancing Benefit & Returns

Sean Parker, Tech Entrepreneur

How Investing in an Opportunity Fund Works

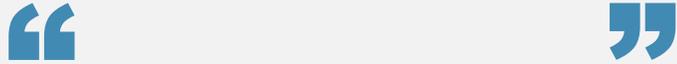

To receive the most favorable tax treatment on their investment, investors are incentivized to hold their stakes in an Opportunity Fund over the long term, with the program providing the most potential upside to those who hold their investment for 10 years or even more.

The Buzz

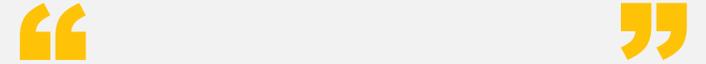

The great thing about this legislation is it can bring together sectors that may not have worked together before.

Jim Sorenson, Entrepreneur/Impact Investor

The goal was to make these funds accessible enough so that it wouldn't be only large institutional players that can participate.

John Lettieri, Economic Innovation Group

If the investments don't provide better housing, better jobs ... then it's been a big waste of time and we've all failed.
